PROJECT: Extension, North Stoke

DESIGN SUMMARY:

The clients had a previous planning application, but felt the scheme was insufficient. LAPD had the complex task of negotiating a larger extension, whilst remaining faithful to the design specifications of the client.

Through several meetings and an extended correspondence with the planning officers the second application was granted, and the new design allowed for the large open plan space that was wanted downstairs, with bifold doors providing a multi-functional and well lit kitchen/diner and living room.

On the first floor the en-suite bedroom is spacious, commanding a view of the garden through the large window which is a feature in its own right, from both interior and exterior view points.
